Perils and Possibilities in working with Trauma

This one-day supervision course is the third of a series of online supervision courses, organised by the Danish Society for Analytical Psychology in cooperation with the Jung Institute, Copenhagen. Each time, we will invite a well-known international Jungian supervisor who will give a lecture and lead a master-class. In addition to this, there will twice during the day be breakout groups with supervision of clinical cases or supervision cases, led by experienced Jungian supervisors, and with 5 - 7 participants in each group. Participants are asked to bring cases for the breakout groups and the master-class. The cases can be from both individual and group work.

We welcome participants from Denmark, from the other Nordic countries, from Eastern and Central Europe and from other countries abroad who are trained as psychotherapists and/or Jungian psychoanalysts and have worked in clinical practice for at least three years. We welcome also those therapists and analysts who have begun to supervise and would like to learn more.
